26th International Congress of Clinical Chemistry and Laboratory Medicine

The IFCC WorldLab delivered a world- wide forum for the free and open exchange of information on the science and technology of clinical chemistry and laboratory medicine in the academic, clinical, and industrial settings; it enabled an international forum for clinical laboratory scientists and physicians to interact with their peers; and provided a forum to promote human health.

The program covered a broad range of important themes such as fundamental concepts, advanced diagnostics and techniques used in laboratory medicine. The program featured plenary lectures, symposiums on cutting-edge topics, oral presentations, posters and high-level educational workshops.

17th Congress of Arab Federation of Clinical Biology

(AFCB) was established in 1974 in Egypt. AFCB is a federation of associations, syndicates and bodies representing specialists in the field of laboratory medicine and health, in scientific and educational institutions and in medical laboratories for diagnosis and research in both private and public sectors, within the Arab

Honoring Innovation in Future Medicine
The UAE International Genomics Awards celebrate excellence and innovation in the field of genetics, with a specific focus on Future Medicine in 2024.

10th Saudi
Society for
Clinical Chemistry
Annual Meeting

03

The conference was accredited by Saudi Commission for Health Specialties for 20 CMEs. The overall success of the Conference is based on the warm welcome that conference subjects received and the high level of participation, as more than 6000 delegates attended the meeting and the wide range of presentations in the field of Clinical Chemistry.

IFCC Forum for Young Scientists

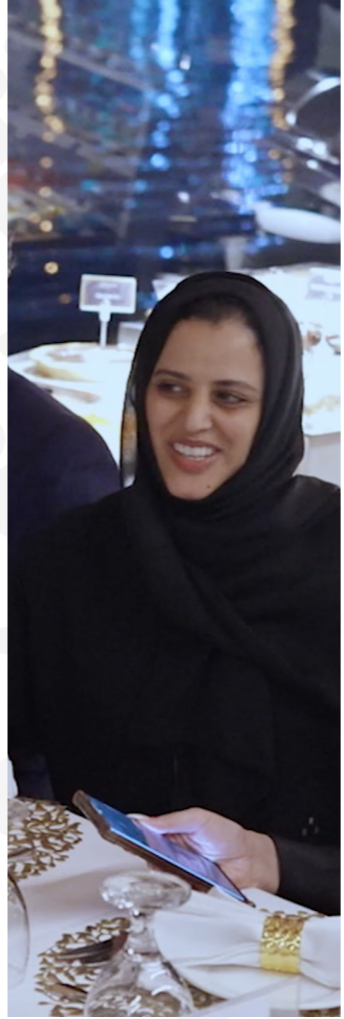

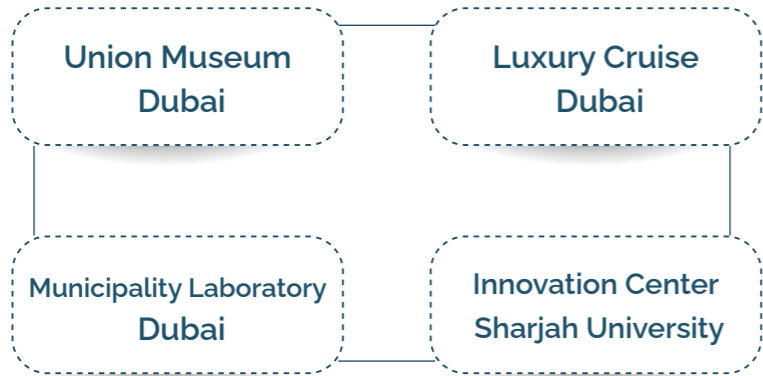

05

The scientific program at the FORUM provided the young scientists an excellent opportunity for an open discussion platform about scientific and personal experiences, exchange of ideas among colleagues and best practices. Young Scientists presented and discussed their activities in laboratory medicine and benefit from career skills development.

Tourist Trips

The UAEGDA organized several sightseeing and educational trips for the conference guests and students participating in the Young Scientists Conference.
